

~Tosh Sunderland~
2018 NIFPA Stage Adjudicator

Tosh Sutherland is a Vancouver based dancer and actor. He began his training at a local studio in British Columbia and his passion for the dance only grew. He has trained with various instructors from all over North America. Most notably attending the prestigious School at Jacob's Pillow under the direction of Dianne Walker. After a brief stint at sea with Princess Cruises, he dove into the musical theatre scene in Vancouver and has been fortunate with numerous opportunities to mix both his love of dance and performing in general. His most recent credits include; Danny Nielsen's all tap dance production of Love.Be.Best.Free, Gateway Theatres production of The Music Man and Cry-Baby: The Musical with Awkward Stage Productions. He is honoured to be Stage adjudicator for the North Island Festival of Performing Arts. Break-a-leg dancers!
