Prince Nii Engmann

Prince “Nii” Engmann is a dancer, choreographer and teacher from Vancouver, Canada. Born in Toronto, Prince decided to dance at the late age of 18 after attending the World of Dance show held in Vancouver. His African heritage as well as his training in classical, jazz and popular music had already laid a solid foundation for him to build his dance training upon. Post graduating and while pursuing a nursing degree, he started training under Studio 604 and Harbour Dance Centre where he found a deep love for hip hop dance.

Prince has had the pleasure of dancing for amazing individuals in the industry such as Kenny Ortega, Tony Testa, Chris Scott, Mandy Moore, Luther Brown and more and has received scholarships from notable choreographers such as Kevin Maher (Mariah Carey, Janet Jackson). He has also received awards for his choreography, including Monster’s of Hip-Hop’s Grand Choreography Award. His passion has allowed given him amazing opportunities to dance not only in North America but worldwide.
